Young Woman and Her Alleged Lover Charged With Killing Husband.

Shelbyville, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The case of the State of Tennessee vs. Mrs. Mamie Lee Majors and Lexie McCrory, now being tried here, is drawing immense crowds and creating much interest, numbers of people coming daily from a distance to the trial. The officers are busy keeping the crowds back.

ficers are busy keeping the crowds back.

Mrs. Majors is a young woman of 25 years of age and very good looking, and Lexie McCrory is about the asme age; they are both charged with the muder of Alexander Majors at his home in the Twenty-first district last February, near the Bedford and Marshall county line in this county. The case rests on circumstantial testimony. The state insists that young McCrory and Mrs. Majors became infatuated, and this ripened into an intimate relationship and as a result they sought to get Majors out of the way, and they killed him at his home. The defendants stoutly deny the charge and insist that he came to his death by the accidental discharge of his own gun.

Majors was a well-to-do farmer, and before the killing all parties sustained good characters.

The case is being hard fought on hoth sides. Col. C. A. Armstrong, V. McClain, of Lewisburg, and J. D. Murphy, of this bar, represent the defendants, and they are contesting every step taken by the state. Maj. Howard Shofner is assisting States' Attorney Hoyt Stewart. Mrs. Majors and McCrory have been on the stand a large part of two days and have been under a very severe and searching examination by the brilliant young attorney-general, Stewart.

Judge Richardson is giving the case strict attention, and with his usual ability promptiv passes on the many exceptions made in the trial of the

TOWER OF LONDON IS ENTERED BY THIEF

London.—A burgiar has broken into the Tower of London.

He entered the canteen of the battalion stationed there and stole cash amounting to about $30.

It is probably the first time in the history of the Tower that a burgiary has taken place there, and certainly it is the first time the police have been called in. Scotland Yard took charge of the case.

Entry to the canteen was effected through the window. The thief helped himself to the beer before leaving.

The crown jewels are kept in another part of the Tower.

TROOP NO. 23 BLAMED FOR RAIN.

(By Scout William Stutz.)

It is being whispered abroad that this troop is responsible for the excess rainfall commencing Saturday night, Aug. 7, and continuing half way through the next week. This deduction comes, from the fact that four scouts and Scoutmaster Williard undertook a bicycle hike on the Saturday night first mentioned. The point set out for was North Chattanoogs, up the Dry Valley road, but the hikers got only as far as Red Bank, where a bivouac was forced, due to Scoutmaster Williard having two punctures, one in the front and another in the back tire. Another scout also encountered a puncture. Being without patches on other relief the hikera could go no further. Their second trouble came when about 10 p. m. the first rainfall, after a comparative drought, began to fall and the open-air camp was abandoned, an adjournment being taken to a freight station on the Dry Valley car line, where morning found them again facing a rainy outlook. It is sufficient to state that the trip homeward was made by way the electric car.

For the second successive evening the troop availed itself of the invitation of Secretary Glen Ellis to swim at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday night. A short meeting was first held at troop headquarters. Trooper William Stuts was advanced from tenderfoot to second-class scout. Scout Clarence Gentry passed his tenderfoot examination at this meeting and will be initiated soon. The older members are training the "goat" for this event.
